

My name is Chad. The problem with me is that I got my B and D mixed up and had trouble focusing. I also had trouble knowing my left and my right. Dr. Murray and Robin taught me a way to remember which way they go. It was simple and they were a great help. They were always nice. So nice that they did not get mad when I messed up.

When I got there, we always began with doing jumping jacks. I learned that they helped me to remember and focus. I followed the dots on a board that had lights. I worked with blocks to see the different angles in my brain. It helped me to remember my left and my right. I had to read a paper with arrows that were up, down, left and right. I got to wear an eye patch that made me feel like a pirate. It was fun.

They helped me a lot and I am much better now. Thanks to Dr. Murray and Robin.
